- Looking for ways to make your keynote speech or a workshop remarkable?
- Do you need a presentation to energize your team-members?

Well - your worries are OVER!!!

All you need is the "100 Creative Presentation Ideas" e-book.

A Taste of the Creative Presentation Ideas

Listed below are just 3 of 100 Creative Presentation Ideas you can use to make your presentation unforgettable. You may use the 100 creative presentation ideas when speaking to potential investors, at management forums, conference lecture or with your colleagues, employees; for a marketing presentation or any other presentation you have to make - in a workshop, speech, lecture, school or university setting.

Each creative presentation idea is described in the following format:

- Basic description of the creative presentation idea
- What for? major benefits of the presentation idea, or how it may be used
- Variations on the creative idea: how you can adapt the presentation idea to different settings, goals and audiences
- Comments: things you should pay attention to when using the creative presentation idea

Well, here comes the first creative presentation idea:

Creative Presentation Idea #1
Description:	Do not use titles in your presentation slides
What for?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Tell the presentation viewers that you left out the presentation titles intentionally in order to see if you could deliver your main points clearly</li><li>2. When using the presentation as a learning aid in a workshop, if your audience is required to complete the titles, they will have to think about what you are teaching and actively participate in the discussion</li></ol>
Variations:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Leave the titles out for only some of the presentation slides – perhaps the ones that will be used for a review of the presentation so far, or to trigger a discussion on a controversial issue</li><li>2. Write only half of the title, and ask your audience to complete it</li></ol>
Comments:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• You can use a printed “complete” version of the presentation for yourself, so you can see the titles you meant to use</li></ul>

Is the above idea right for your upcoming conference or marketing presentation. If it isn't - don't worry, there are 100 Creative Ideas you can use for your conference presentation.

Also - if you still need help with other marketing presentation ideas, conference presentation ideas or and other ideas at all - the 100 Creative Presentation Ideas E-book entitles you to bonus ideas on any subject of your choice (see below for details).

The creative presentation ideas I suggest are of different kinds and levels. Some are crazier than others. You should choose the one that best suits your presentation needs. Do you want to make a really bold statement? Here is a more outrageous presentation idea:

Creative Presentation Idea #75
Description:	Present the presentation blindfolded!

What for?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. You could definitely demonstrate your knowledge of the presentation subject and a good memory skill as well as self-confidence by using this idea</li> <li>2. Use it to add some humor to your presentation: after you put the blindfold on, intentionally make some funny mistakes when referring to the slides, and only then show them that you know what you're talking about...</li> </ol>
Variations:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Put the blindfold on for just a short part of the presentation, when you want to make a dramatic effect</li> <li>2. Provide blindfolds for the participants, so their sense of hearing will be heightened and you could test their memory after a few slides!</li> </ol>
Comments:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Take care not to offend people with disabilities (e.g. blind people, etc.). Use this technique when you are certain you can do so tactfully and with good taste</li> </ul>

As you might have noticed by now, these creative presentation ideas do not rely on an incredible knowledge of Power Point, or on unreasonable production expenses. Actually, in some of the creative presentation ideas you don't even have to use Power Point at all!. Here's one:

Creative Presentation Idea #31
Description:	Have a painter/caricaturist assistant - drawing images/cartoons on a flip chart as you explain
What for?	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. This would make your presentation "live" on the go. Instead of using slides, the sketches would visually convey the major points you are trying to get through. For example - when you talk about the tough task lying ahead, a simple drawing of mountaineers climbing up a steep mountain would etch that image in the viewers' mind.</li> <li>2. A caricaturist could add a touch of humor to your presentation with funny images and hints</li> </ol>

Variations:	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. If you have the talent – you could draw the presentation sketches yourself as you speak.</li> <li>2. If there's an electronic drawing pad – you could use it and show the drawings on a presentation screen as they are drawn.</li> <li>3. Alternatively - ask some of the participants themselves to help you and draw those images on the flip chart as you speak.</li> <li>4. You could prepare and give the participants a comic book with the important things you talked about in your presentation.</li> </ol>
Comments:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Make sure there are enough flip chart pages you could use, and that everyone can see them well.</li> <li>• Rehearse the presentation with the painter and list the major subjects you are going to talk about so that s/he would have time to think about how to make meaningful and relevant drawings.</li> <li>• Here are a few pointers on where to find the person to draw for you: look for high school or college art students who wish to practice and demonstrate their talent for a small fee or free of charge; ask around for other employees that have that talent and are willing to give a hand. Of course, if the presentation is worth the investment, you may always hire a professional caricaturist.</li> </ul>
